B.E.A. DINNER.

The Annual Dinner will be held at the Bonnington Hotel, Southampton Row, London, W.C.1, on Saturday, 10th December. Dinner, 7.0. "La Espero" 11.0. Music, Dancing. Morning Dress. Tickets 6/- each, from the B.E.A. As the accommodation is strictly limited, and as, owing to the unusually interesting nature of the proceedings, it is certain that many more applications for tickets will be received than can be filled, tickets (which are now on sale) should be ordered without delay. Tickets will be supplied in order of application. Vegetarians will be catered for (state diet in ordering ticket). Remittances with order.

The ESPERANTO DIARY.

This book will be out on 25th October. It will contain official information about the B.E.A., an article on Esperanto, details of Federations, Groups, and Local Representatives, ten pages of postal and other general information, a diary, account columns, and memo pages. Price, bound in imitation leather, with pocket and pencil, 1/6 (postage 2d.).

This book has been often asked for by members, and it should meet a real need. It now remains for every member to buy copies for himself and friends, and thus justify its production, which has involved considerable outlay. If this first edition is a success, a larger number of pages will be devoted to Esperanto next year, and suggestions in this direction will be welcomed. But do not forget—order your own copy now, and get a supply for Christmas and birthday gifts. The volume makes an excellent present, and is an unobtrusive but effective piece of propaganda.

Office Hours: 9—5.30. (Monday till 8.30, Saturday till 12.30).

"INTERNATIONAL LANGUAGE."—A monthly magazine in English, devoted to the study of the International Language problem. Includes instructional articles on Esperanto and The Esperanto Student, a supplement for beginners. Subscription, 2/6 per annum, post free.

ESPERANTO AND EDUCATION.

A Noteworthy Pronouncement.

"I knew nothing of this language (Esperanto) until I was invited to join a Committee of the British Association (1921) to inquire as to the possibilities of adopting some one language as the medium of international exchange for the purposes of science. The members of this Committee, with one exception, held that national languages, however widespread and popular in certain quarters of the globe, were inadmissible; that Latin was far too difficult (specimens were procured which afforded emphatic evidence on this point); and that among all the invented languages Esperanto alone held the field. The spread of Esperanto since 1921, especially in relation to broadcasting on the Continent, entirely confirms these findings. To test the Committee's verdict as regards ease of acquirement, I invited a few Manchester teachers to join an experimental class, and the results showed that the construction of Esperanto enables both adult and child to get to grips with it for practical use long before a class commencing French or German could do the like. The few schools in England, and the much larger number on the Continent which have introduced an Esperanto Course for children about ten years of age, confirm this view.

Without entering into details, three points seem to be clear.

(1). A year's work in Esperanto, at the level of Standard V, taking half an hour per day, would give children a sufficient grounding to enable them to correspond in simple prose with children in foreign countries; in a second year all that they would need to do would be to spend an hour or so once a week in reading and answering letters from abroad. If thereafter they ceased to use the language, either in school or elsewhere for some years, they would be able to recover it, just as any other habit (e.g. skating on ice) acquired in childhood can be revived at need.

(2). This year's course would at the same time serve as practical exercise in grammar, for the elements of universal grammar, case, number, gender, tense, mood, parts of speech, etc., are discerned as the work proceeds; a motive for grammar learning is thus provided which is never felt so long as the child is confined to using his native tongue. . . . Until the learner has felt the difference by making a start on Esperanto . . . he cannot realize the relief of using a language with a minimum of rules and with no exceptions. Even if Esperanto were of no practical use, its value merely as an introduction to principles of grammar would be worth the 120 hours asked for it.

(3). After a year's course in Esperanto, which should be introduced to Primary School pupils before the parting of the ways to Central, Secondary or the like, there are at least two more years left before those who remain in the Primary School attain the age of fourteen and leave. These should offer a choice of going on with Esperanto or of taking up French or German. The last two years if the Primary School could well afford half an hour per diem for a first year of French, and three hours per week for a second year: so equipped, with the year of Esperanto behind, boys and girls at fourteen would be able to meet the modern world on fair terms.

B.E.A. RADIO COMMITTEE.

The Council has revised the Constitution of this committee on the following lines. The Committee is to represent the B.E.A. on radio matters, with authority to act on its behalf. It shall make all arrangements for broadcasting in or about Esperanto, including the approval of the items, and have power to appoint local Committees where advisable. It shall endeavour to arrange that no persons be allowed to broadcast as representing the Esperanto movement in this country without the approval of the Committee. It shall report to the B.E.A. Executive, and appoint one of its members to attend the meetings of the Executive. It shall have no power to commit the B.E.A. financially in any way.

KRONIKO FAKA.

Medicine. The Lancet, 13 August, has a well-informed note on the recent progress of Esperanto in medical circles, and of the Internacia Medicina Revuo. This latter magazine is undoubtedly the largest of our Esperanto technical magazines: it is a pity that it has as yet received but little support in this country.

Labour. The National Council of Labour Colleges again announces Elementary and Advanced Courses in Esperanto. These courses attracted a number of students last year. They are run by our member Mark Starr. Details from J. P. Millar, 62 Hanover Street, Edinburgh.

Radio. Experimental Wireless continues its monthly Esperanto summaries of articles in the previous issues. If only for this feature alone it should be taken in by all Esperantist Radiuloj. Incidentally, it is a magazine of the very highest rank in its subject. 2/6 from all Book-stalls.

The volume Radio por Esperantistoj noticed in our last issue, and the Kvinlingva Radia Vortaro noticed in this issue, are welcome editions to Esperantist technical literature, and well worth purchase.

Shorthand. At the International Shorthand Congress held 4-8 August in Brussels, four prizes were given for Esperanto shorthand; the first was given to Victor Hendrix (system Groote), for 140 syllables a minute, the second to F-ino Odette Piau (system Duploye) for 120 syllables p.m. See another column for particulars of the International Association of Esperanto Shorthand-writers.

NASKIĜO.

Butler. En Clapham, la 13an de Septembro, je 8.5 matene, al Montagu C. kaj Martha Amy Butler, filo, nomita Daniel Weeden.

GRUPAJ PROGRAMOJ.

Birmingham. Okt. 19, Interparolo. Okt. 26, Leter-vespero. Nov. 2, Esperanto kaj Poezio.

Edinburgh. Okt. 19, Kongresaj Spertoj. Okt. 26, Okcidenta Kimrujo. Nov. 2, Debato. Nov. 9, Italaj Lagoj.

Liverpool. Okt. 18, Amikeca kunveno (refrešajoj).

London Club. Okt. 18, Socia vespero. Okt. 21, La angla lagaro. Okt. 25, Instrumetodoj. Okt. 28, Danco 2/-. Nov. 1, Esperanta literaturo. Nov. 4, Egaleco de la seksoj. Nov. 8, Visto. Nov. 11, Teatrajoj.

Southend. Nov. 4, Kantoj el la Kantaro.

VARIOUS.

Divine Service in Esperanto will be held in St. Ethelburga's Church, 72 Bishopsgate, London, at 3.15, on Sunday, 13 Nov. Speaker: A. H. Constance, F.B.E.A.

B.E.A. Library. From time to time members and group secretaries are reminded that photos of individual members, or group activities, if only in post-card form, would be gratefully accepted and carefully preserved. So far the response is disappointing. A gift of YOUR photo would be much appreciated.

Group Secretaries. Please send information for The British Esperantist, if possible, by the 1st of the month.

"Angla kaj Skota Esperantisto," 1d. monthly, from G. Woodgate, 32, Ferntower Road, London, N.5, contains, with interesting matter, a quarterly supplement, Eklezia Aldono, giving news of the Eklezia Esperantista Ligo.

Ten Children from the Friends' School, Sibford, recently gained the Preliminary Certificate of the B.E.A.
